Dear Sir

In your repl^y of Feb 22^d, to my letter to M^r Coreoran requesting permission for M^r Guillaume to make a copy of the portrait of John Randolph, you wrote "M^r Coreoran assents to your request, but the place where the copy is to be made is yet to be decided, of which decision you will be notified".

I will be obliged to you to inform me whether your decision has been arrived at, & what it is, as I await that information to give the order to M^r Guillaume.

Respectfully yours

My dear Mr. Macleod.

A few days since noticing in the studio of Mr. R. Swan Gifford, his superb Landscape, "The Coast of New England", his Academy picture last year, it occurred to me what a fine place the Corcoran Gallery would be to exhibit the picture - and in thinking of it since, I concluded to write you presuming to suggest the idea on my own responsibility - and for the sole reason that I think it too bad that such a work by our leading American Landscape painter should not to placed for a while where it-would teach a great-lesson to artists and many others who probably would never see it-unless at the National Gallery. I mentioned the subject to Mr. Jifford, as it accrued to me, but do not know his exact-views on the subject-Simply for the reason I give, the idea is submitted to you, thinking you might care to write him on the subject.

I leave for Boston in a few days, thence to Chicago, but returning to New York in a few weeks.
Hoping your Calabym is progressing satisfactorily, with kind regards, Very truly,

Sara J. Halloue
